

Posted on June 21, 2011 by Keghart

Category: Did You Know?

On Dec. 22, 1925 the "New York Times" reported that a British ship, carrying 400 tons of human bones, had arrived in Marseilles. According to local rumors, the bones were the remains of the victims of massacres in Asia Minor. They were imported for the manufacture of buttons.

On Dec. 22, 1925 the "New York Times" reported that a British ship, carrying 400 tons of human bones, had arrived in Marseilles. According to local rumors, the bones were the remains of the victims of massacres in Asia Minor. They were imported for the manufacture of buttons.

