

AGAIN, WITH THE DANCING; OR, WILL WE NEVER LEARN?

Posted on December 28, 2008 by Keghart

Category: Opinions

By Avedis Kevorkian, Philadelphia PA, 6 November 2008

Once again, the Armenians in America are dancing in the streets. Once again, it is an election victory by the Dummocrats.

By Avedis Kevorkian, Philadelphia PA, 6 November 2008

Once again, the Armenians in America are dancing in the streets. Once again, it is an election victory by the Dummocrats.

This time, it is the capture of the White House and an increase in the number of Dummocrats in both Houses of Congress.

And, again, the Armenians are expecting great things from the victors. Remember the exuberance in November 2006? Now, we were told, the American Congress would state once and for all that "Yes, there was an Armenian Genocide." I even put two bottles of Champagne in my refrigerator in anticipation of that great day.

We all remember the still-birth of HR106, and the miscarriage of S106 in this Congress run by the Dummocrats. It would appear that the Armenians were so busy dancing--after all, doctors say it's good exercise and good for the heart--that they may not have noticed the magnificent campaign that the Turks ran to put an end to both non-binding measures. But, let us look forward.

At this writing, president-elect Obama has not yet announced his Cabinet Secretaries--the most important of whom is the Secretary of State. As we know the last seven (or is it eight?) Secretaries have been pro-Turkish and opponents of any American recognition of the Armenian Genocide--"It's not in America's national interests, Sir."

It should not be forgotten that just before the voting, the Turkish government sent two top officials to America to speak with the staffs of the two candidates--one to remind the Dummocrats and the other to remind the Repugnants that they must take their instructions from Ankara in matters-Armenian and matters-Hellenic.

It should also be noted that the Co-Chairman of the Obama for President campaign in Florida was Robert I. Wexler who is the founder and chairman of the Turkish Caucus in Congress. (Wexler is the representative of what has been called the most-Jewish district in Congress.) Having delivered Florida for the Dummocrats, it is obvious that Wexler will demand his pound of flesh, and we all know from whose neck that pound will come.

Already some of the media are calling for the new administration to be "bi-partisan"--strange that, considering that the same media didn't call for bi-partisanship when the present administration took office! And, already, one of the persons being suggested for Secretary of State is a Repugnant who is a known pro-Turk.

All of this is not to suggest that President-elect Obama and Vice President-elect Biden will go back on their pro-Armenian stands (and, let us not forget, their pro-Cyprus comments) of the past, but considering what happens between a November election and a January inaugural, it behoves the Armenians to curtail their joy.

For myself, I never took out of the refrigerator my two bottles of Champagne, and I intend to wait. (And, besides, I never learned to dance.) But, I would appreciate the advice from an œnologist as to how long I can keep Champagne in a refrigerator.

