ARMENIA: A TURKISH-AZERBAIJANI COLONY

Posted on March 15, 2026 by Keghart

Category: Opinions

By Dr. Armen Ayvazyan, Yerevan, Armenia, 13 March 2026

On March 13, 2026, Dr. Armen Ayvazyan posted a dire assessment of Armenia on his Facebook page. He stated, "Pashinyan has effectively begun implementing a program to turn Armenia into a Turkish-Azerbaijani colony." The English translation of the Armenian text was provided by the author. Ed.

*****

Nikol Pashinyan has effectively begun implementing a program to turn Armenia into a Turkish-Azerbaijani colony, publicly declaring to the entire world that no Armenian state official is any longer allowed even to utter a word about Artsakh or to present books about its history—about this ethnically cleansed part of Armenia.

According to Pashinyan and his Civil Contract party, Armenians—and in general the citizens of Armenia—must have fewer rights and a lower status than Turks and Azerbaijanis. Armenians are expected to be subordinated to those who committed genocide against them: what is permitted to Turks and Azerbaijanis must be forbidden to Armenians.

Thus, Baku and Ankara are free to present to their own societies and to the world their entirely falsified and distorted narratives about the history of Armenia, the Artsakh issue, and the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict, while Armenians are not. One only needs to recall the recent case when Allahshukur Pashazade presented to the Pope books containing one hundred percent distortions of Armenian history and of the history of the Armenian Church.

It is also clear that the state will not finance scholarly or literary works devoted to the history and culture of Artsakh or to the Armenian liberation struggles, nor cultural events, museum exhibitions, or monument construction on these subjects.

Baku and Ankara may destroy Armenian historical and cultural monuments and desecrate Armenian holy sites, yet Armenia itself is not even allowed to protest. If the Civil Contract party retains power, Turks and Azerbaijanis will become masters in Armenia—as they were in the Ottoman Empire and as they are in today's Turkey—while Armenians will be forbidden to protest or to speak about national rights. The Armenians in Armenia are to be reduced to the condition of the Istanbul Armenians: living fearfully and quietly, tolerating the continuous humiliation of their national dignity.

In effect, a regime of political and legal inequality is being formed, in which the titular nation of the country is placed in a more subordinate position inside its own state than the citizens of hostile foreign states.

After banning books about the Artsakh chapter of Armenian history, Pashinyan and the Civil Contract party will also move toward falsifying the history of the Armenian Genocide—although they have already begun laying the groundwork for this under foreign guidance. It is enough to recall Andranik Kocharyan's diversionary idea of searching for the names of millions of Armenian victims.

Amid the thunderous applause of the European Parliament, Nikol Pashinyan is laying the foundations in Armenia for a regime of Turkish-Azerbaijani apartheid and fascism. The fate of Armenians in Armenia may begin to resemble the fate of Palestinians in Gaza.

This is the danger. It must be clearly understood—and acted upon.

*****

Dr. Armen Ayvazian is a Senior Researcher in History for the Matendararan Research Institute in Armenia and Director of the "Ararat" Center for Strategic Research, Yerevan. He holds doctoral degrees in History (1992) and Political Science (2004).

-

Comments

jirair – 2026-03-25 18:45:21
Consider the following speculation which is based on Turkbeijan's track record: Premise 1: Turkbeijan wants to swallow Armenia. Premise 2: They have failed to do so because Pashinyan accedes to their every demand. Turkbeijan wants an Armenian leader with backbone who would reject Turkbeijan's demands. Premise 3: Erdogan and Aliyev state they would like to see Pashinyan win in June. They hope citizens of Armenia would decide not to re-elect Pashinyan because he is Turkbeijan's boy. Instead, they would elect someone with backbone and patriotic spirit. Premise 4: Turkbeijan would provoke the new Armenia PM.. The new PM would have no choice but to resist the Turks. This would result in Turkbeijan's attack on Armenia. Turkey and Azerbaijan absorb Armenia. America offers easy visas to the people of Armenia who want to live in Klendale. Putin picks more Armenian immigrants..

Marta Vartuhi – 2026-03-20 15:50:10
Please read up on the evil that is Peter Thiel/Palantir. He is off the satanic Epstein Elite that is destroying the US and is directly responsible for murdering in Gaza. The attacks on all mankind are from many direction and it is all interrelated. We are in a VERY SERIOUS unholy holy war. And most of the world is asleep. The Nerd Reich website is a good start - all articles. We are commanded to stand up for what is right, what is good, for all mankind. We re not going to have someone to lead us out of this, although leader are beginning to show up. And Pashinyan has served his purpose. The Church is above the state. God does not recognize manmade boundaries. We need all voices and all hands on deck. Even our newspaper need to get with the real news and not be focused so ethnocentrically. This is NOT a fire drill. This is a REAL and raging fire. And right now, Iran is the only bulwark. SERIOUSLY.

Marta Vartuhi – 2026-03-20 15:33:44
This is a how serious the global situation is:
https://www.thenerdreich.com/peter-thiels-antichrist-circus-smacked-down-in-rome/?ref=the-nerd-reich-newsletter

Nurnisa Erismis – 2026-03-20 14:28:35
Dearest Marta, As I reflect again on your comment, I find that your distinction between “people” and “governments” carries an important truth. Many of the crises we are witnessing today emerge not from the will of ordinary people, but from states and the power structures that shape them. At the same time, when I try to look at the issue from a broader perspective, I cannot help but ask: how many states today truly stand outside the sphere of U.S. hegemony? In this region in particular, it is difficult to ignore that Turkey and Azerbaijan largely act in alignment with this balance of power. This alignment may sometimes appear openly, and at other times be framed through more indirect or rhetorical justifications—but the outcome remains the same. In the case of Turkey, although the majority of society is Muslim, this reality is often reframed in political discourse through concepts such as “democratic Islam” or similar formulations. Such narratives do not eliminate deeper geopolitical alignments; rather, they tend to obscure them within a different language. Looking at developments in the region, we also see how quickly local actors can be repositioned within the strategic calculations of larger powers. The case of Rojava showed how easily the Kurds could be left alone within shifting international dynamics. What was once presented as a “strategic partnership” could be set aside in a very short time. This is not accidental, but part of how this system functions. Within this broader picture, Armenia’s position appears even more fragile. Surrounded by stronger regional actors, its room for maneuver is extremely limited, leaving it exposed to multiple and overlapping influences. For this reason, I believe it is necessary to approach the issue not only through the lens of a single country or government, but within a wider framework of power relations. Warm regards, Nurnisa

Marta Vartuhi – 2026-03-20 11:17:05
This press conference deserves broadcast: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=lquJf67wSyo Great press conference, answers to questions from Geneva. Christian Solidarity International - True Christian Evangelicals who care about human rights in Armenia, Artsakh, and globally... Those otherwise who have besieged the US of I government, Armenia and elsewhere are a heretical abomination.

Marta Vartuhi – 2026-03-20 11:09:57
Dearest Nurnisa, I found Dr. Ayvazian's analysis and warning suitable. In fact, as an American citizen, I would go even further than what he presents cogently and perhaps too politely for the dire urgency/warning presented, not only for Armenia, but the globe. Armenia is entrapped by the US of Israel/Christian Zionist mission, that of the End of Times. This might suit the Turkish and Azerbaijani government... for now. But they, too are on the list... The entire region is being played. It is not the people that are evil, but the governments that care nothing for the human rights of anyone. We are facing evil of global consequences. The Middle East and the South Caucasus regions face Gaza-tization. After Iran, Armenia, after Armenia, Turkey. And that is if WWIII is not enacted first. The world is in such a fragile state. Damn the governments. Up with the PEOPLE. Please Armenia, ANYONE but Pashinyan. Release our political prisoners!!!

Martha Manoian – 2026-03-20 10:38:35
Accurate and honest analysis is never idle. More of this legitimate analysis is needed, please. Armenia is under control by Israeli/Christian Zionist cabal that controls the government of US.

HOVANES BOYADJIAN – 2026-03-19 19:06:00
Enough of this idle criticism of Pashinian.

Nurnisa Erismis – 2026-03-17 16:34:16
Dear Dr. Ayvazyan, At the same time, while reading, I found myself thinking not only about your arguments, but also about the language used. I paused in particular on how terms such as “colony,” “apartheid,” and “fascism” shape the reading experience. These words, almost inevitably, draw the reader into a more intense and sharper frame of understanding. This intensity conveys the seriousness of what you are trying to express; yet it also brings to mind a question: when such heavily loaded concepts come together, might the line between analysis and warning begin to blur? I found myself especially reflecting on the phrase “the condition of Istanbul Armenians.” For me, this is more than a metaphor. It evokes a lived reality—one that is fragile, certainly, but also sustained in ways that are not always visible. For this reason, encountering it primarily as an image of decline left a certain heaviness in me. Because what exists there is not only limitation, but also continuity, and a form of quiet resilience. Perhaps the question is this: how can we express urgency without allowing the weight of our words to reduce such realities to a single meaning? I wanted to share these thoughts with respect, and with an appreciation for the seriousness of the issues you raise. Sincerely

Avo – 2026-03-16 14:45:39
Dr. Ayvazian's article is a highly valuable one, valuable both in dollar terms in the current pre-election timing, and in career advancement perspectives, in case the current government loses in the elections. Career advancement may mean being appointed of either as a Mayor of the re-liberated Stepanagerd or liberated Gars, in the event the opposition wins the elections... in either case, the article is most beneficial to its author.