John Fusco, a rising star among American thriller writers, has an Armenian villain in his latest novel "Dog Beach". Hollywood's Avi Ghazaryan is an incompetent film producer with sketchy investment sources. His daughter is a no-talent brat who wants to become a film star. On the book jacket Christ Bohjalian said: "…I'm a big fan of John Fusco. 'Dog Beach' is a gem, a Hollywood novel by a guy who knows Hollywood. …Fast and funny and filled with surprises."
