Yerevan.-Vehicles owned by members of civil activists Pre-Parliament (Nakhakorhtaran) group were destroyed in seven almost simultaneous explosions in different Yerevan neighborhoods in the early hours of Nov. 27. There were no injuries.

The ability to carry-out such a synchronized operation requires a highly-organized and coordinated command center, said a source close to pro-Nakhakorhtaran. Consequently, he said, it would be relatively easy to find people who possess such incendiary sophistication.

The same source added: "Armenians—in Armenia and in the Diaspora--cannot tolerate these violent tactics. Freedom of speech and opinion are fundamental values that need to be protected. Differences in opinion, however divergent, should not and cannot be silenced with these methods."

The civil movement supporter added: "It is hoped that Armenia authorities will denounce these actions in no uncertain terms and do their utmost to bring to justice the perpetrators of such violent acts."
