

WRITER NINA BERBEROVA

Posted on October 12, 2015 by Keghart

Category: Did You Know?

One of the leading literary figures of the exiled White Russians was Nina Berberova, the daughter of a wealthy St. Petersburg Armenian. She lived in Paris before moving to the United States in 1950 where she taught Russian at Yale and Princeton. In 1939 she wrote the biography of Tchaikovsky. She married twice (poet Vladislav Khodasevich and George Kocevistsky).

One of the leading literary figures of the exiled White Russians was Nina Berberova, the daughter of a wealthy St. Petersburg Armenian. She lived in Paris before moving to the United States in 1950 where she taught Russian at Yale and Princeton. In 1939 she wrote the biography of Tchaikovsky. She married twice (poet Vladislav Khodasevich and George Kocevistsky).

